Academy puts focus on learning

By Bill Bagby

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The learning process is a slow and tedious one.

But students at the Lahr-Well Academy are encouraged to push on.

THE ACADEMY, located at St. Paul's United Church of Christ in Edwardsville, is run by former Granite City resident Almeda Lahr-Well.

Sunday focus

The academy opened last year and had seven students, the said.

The school is a previously attended public school or another private school, she said. Some were labeled "gifted," while one student was labeled as being "behaviorally disturbed" by public school administrators.

But the ACADEMY, they have progressed with outstanding results. A 14-year-old student, when tested in May, showed that her working level was five years and three months above her grade level, Lahr-Well said. This means the junior-high student is able to do the work of a college freshman.

Of her seven students, Lahr-Well said tests showed the average working level was four years above grade level.

THE HIGH TEST results came from high academic standards, she said. For example, history is taught to fourth graders at the high school level.

Lahr-Well said she is pleased with the students' progress and achievement.

"Sometimes the work is a challenge," she said, "but when we see the outcome, it reinforces the work we've put into it."

SHE SAID she realizes her gifted students are still children.

"Education does not exclude their human value," she said.

Parents are also pleased with the academy and with Lahr-Well's success with their children.

"IT CATERED TO THE needs of the parents," said Elizabeth Lewin. "She's a beautiful, dedicated woman and she has the heart at heart."

Lewin's 11-year-old daughter, Lisa, attended another private school before going to the academy. A fifth grade student last year, she will start seventh grade this fall at Edwardsville Junior High School.

The children's parents also play an important role in the education process, Lewin said.

"THE CONCEPT is a very good one as long as the parents remain committed that their children socialize with children the same age," Lewin said.

Lahr-Well started the school after the Edwardsville School District refused to "double promote" her older daughter, Lewin said.

With a doctorate in Hispanic language and literature, Lahr-Well decided to start her own school in 1985. With her daughter attending, she said.

BEST OF HER DEGREE, Lahr-Well taught for a short time in the Granite City School District as well as at other schools. She also unsuccessfully ran for the school board in 1974.

The academy has a staff of five, teaching grades kindergarten through eighth. Tuition is $2,000 per year, she said.

There are some things her school cannot offer that are offered by public schools, she said, like education classes.

"WE DON'T have the finances to afford what the public schools can achieve," she said.

Other parents have praised the success of Lahr-Well's academy.

Sewer repairs costly

By Bill Bagby

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Rehabilitation of the Nameoki area sanitary sewer system could cost the city $10.5 million.

In a report issued by Horner & Shifrin Inc. of St. Louis, it is recommended the city implement a plan to reconstruct existing sewers and other badly deteriorated sewer or, in some cases, raise the sewer above the groundwater table.

OTHER SEWERS in need of rehabilitation should be lined, using Insluform slip lining or grouting, the report said.

The groundwater table in the Nameoki area — much higher now than when the sewers were installed in 1954-55 — has caused numerous sewer breaks since 1960, the report noted.

Since June 1981, 48 sewer breaks were reported, with 30 being repaired, the study said.

The study defines approximately 17 miles of the 50 miles of sewers as a "high-risk area" due to the high groundwater levels.

THE REPORT suggests the city implement the plan immediately. In the first year of the plan, $900,000 would be spent, with money coming from the general fund and the Build Illinois program. A $500,000 Build Illinois grant has been approved by the state.

It is recommended that during this time, the city develop a long-term financing plan for the remainder of the project.

The study also recommends the city request the Army Corps of Engineers study the feasibility of lowering the groundwater table in the Nameoki area.

THE STUDY gave several sources of funding for the project. They are through the general fund, sewer charges, general obligation bonds, sewer revenue bonds or governmental grants.

At a meeting Tuesday night with George Wassarow, vice president of Horner & Shifrin, Granite City aldermen voiced concern over the high cost of the project.

"It's going to be one tough cookie to finance those sewers out there," said 2nd Ward Alderman Sam Whitell.

"IT'S GOING to cost a tremendous amount of money to keep the water table down," said 5th Ward Alderman Sam Whitell.

Ervay named food service director

By David Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A replacement for the District 9 director of food service has been named.

Richard Ervay was appointed to the position by the Granite City Board of Education at its Aug. 5 meeting. He replaces Michael Kanak, who resigned last month after accepting a similar position at the Parkway School District in St. Louis County.

Ervay owned Ervay's Restaurant and Lounge on Pontoon Road in Granite City from 1966 to when it was sold in March 1986. He was part owner of Holten and Ervay's Meat Co. from 1968 to 1969. He has lived in Granite City for 39 years.

Ervay will receive $20,000 salary plus benefits.

Kanak was the district's food director for 4½ years. Under his leadership, the district's cafeteria budget improved from a $500,000 yearly deficit to a $22,000 surplus.

In other board hearings, five teachers were recalled for employment with the district.

They and their new positions are: Ruth Noeth, health teacher at the high school; Catherine Cassey, kindergarten teacher at Wilson Elementary; Pam Bloodworth, music and physical education teacher at the high school; Dan Jones, language arts and mathematics teacher at Coolidge junior high; and Cynthia Hollingshead, lower intermediate (fourth grade) teacher at Wilson Grade school.

New teachers hired are Patricia Kopsky, art at Grigsby junior high, and Janet Williams, Spanish at the high school.

Howard Pinkley was hired as a "pony" driver for the district and will start Aug. 11, handling deliveries between schools.

Seven part-time hourly cafeteria workers were also hired. They are: Linda Alford, Emily Dutke, Lee Mitcherson, Lorraine Niepert, Sheila Nunes, Joan Stark and M. Dell Whitsell.

MESD to buy liability insurance

By David Gosnell

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Metro East Sanitary District will be purchasing liability insurance for its commissioners but the district's director is still delaying the coverage in hopes of getting a better price.

"I'm on hold," said MESD Director Walter "Shang" Greathouse.

Commissioners have been without liability coverage since March when Greathouse cancelled the insurance, citing increased premiums.

Liability coverage for MESD equipment and property damage was established last month. The coverage will cost $89,000. Greathouse is not worried about lawsuits against himself or the commissioners while he searches for an insurance company.

Based on conversations with other similar public bodies, Greathouse said it appeared to him that insurance companies only provide legal counseling in such lawsuits.

"What it (personal liability insurance) really means is that an insurance company will give you an attorney to take your case. We have our own attorney," Greathouse said.

No lawsuits have been filed against himself or the commissioners since the insurance was cancelled, Greathouse said.

A Chicago insurance firm, Maple Leaf Insurance Agency, is being strongly considered as an insurer.

Greathouse is trying to get a better price than the $48,000 he said it would have cost the district for personal liability coverage if premium payments were extended last spring.

Through Crane Agencies, of St. Louis, MESD's equipment and property liability coverage last month, the premium payment was only delayed last week, said Greathouse.

Greathouse and the commissioners were told by the company's agent in July that, if payment was not received by the end of July, the company would begin taking premium payments out of agent Ed English's personal account in order to extend coverage.

Murder in Madison

MADISON — An arrest was made Friday afternoon following the stabbing death of a woman at her Reynolds Street home early Friday morning.

Rebecca Lynn Rodgers, 21, of 1101 Reynolds, died Friday morning.

With a doctorate in Hispanic language and literature, Lahr-Well decided to start her own school in 1985. With her daughter attending, she said.

Criminal Division Judge Charles Chapman.

No bail was granted.

Assistant State's Attorney Randy Massay said there was no relation between the victim and Urioste.

The two had never dated each other, Massay said.

Rodgers lived with her mother, a younger sister, and a 2-year-old boy at the Reynolds Street address where she was asleep in her bedroom when the stabbing took place and were not harmed, said Sgt. Paul Bargiel, Madison police detective.

A steel knife believed to have been used in the stabbing has been recovered by investigators.

Authorities said there may have been an attempted sexual assault. An intruder is said to have removed a screen to climb into the house; he removed part of her clothing as she struggled and screamed.

The stab wound in the chest injured her heart.

She was taken to Mercer County. An obituary notice is given elsewhere in this issue.

Concerned over quality

To the editor:

Mr. Crider and his cohorts must feel very smug and self-satisfied that they have successfully pressured Dr. Redmond into resigning.

Certainly, the voters of Granite City should remember what has taken place during the last couple of months when they go to the polls. The game of politics is like a set of dominoes set up to fall one after the other, then a chain-reaction right down the line.

I have to command Dr. Redmond for refusing to play the "yes" game. I will also agree with his statement that most of the jobs in the district are not good.

I am sure that Dr. Redmond will find a more lucrative position that will, in the long run, benefit him professionally, financially and in self-satisfaction. However, this particular phase in his career will follow him as, perhaps, a "blot" in his resume.

I have lived in Granite City for 16 years because it is close to my employment and other family in the city; however, I have no feeling of allegiance to the city.

There is nothing that would make me regret moving from here, as I have given too much political influence.

All we have heard lately is how the city is going to expand, plans for revitalizing the downtown area, new businesses moving into the area; however, things such as this fractus that we have heard are going to make parents seriously consider whether they want to put their children in this school system.

I am glad to read that there are so many citizens who have been willing to make their feelings known in support of Dr. Redmond. These are the people who are showing a concern for Granite City.

BENTON STREET WOMAN

Allegations were rumors

To the editor:

On Sunday, July 20, I attended a meeting at the Madison Recreation Center. This meeting was sponsored by a group called the Madison Concerned Citizens.

I was glad that I went, because I found out that certain accusations made by the Concerned Citizens were totally false and untrue.

The president of that group when questioned by former Mayor Sasyk admitted that information circulated by the Madison Concerned Citizens earlier in the week was not true, and that it was not necessarily true.

How can the citizens of Madison believe the so-called "concerned citizens" when they admit that their information is merely a rumor?

Members of the past administration and members of the present administration who were in attendance agreed that the "concerned citizens" were wrong in their allegations that everything is done in the dark.

I would like to thank Aldermen George Hillman and Gusheff, along with City Treasurer Fred Bathon, City Clerk Bill Weidner, Comptroller Richard Tuka, former Mayor Mike Sasyk and Mayor John Belcoff for their participation in the meeting.

I especially want to thank Fred Bathon, who gave an excellent report, and the thorough way he answered all the questions that were asked.

In the future, I believe that groups which pass information to the city throughout the community should make every effort to get the facts first and not merely spread rumors.

You won't be blue on the ocean blue

In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue. Nearly five centuries later, you can, too. (And see many of the same places he discovered.)

How do you celebrate 500 years of maritimal bliss? Try an ocean cruise, with three couples observing 30th, 50th and 15th anniversaries.

It's still a great vacation. We returned, not sad, but a bit fatter and wiser, Aug. 3 after seven days aboard the Song of America.

The 705-foot-long, 36,600-ton, 1982 model Royal Caribbean Cruise Line vessel carried 1,200 passengers (a crew of about 500).

Questions that may arise involve:

(1) cost, (2) calories, (3) convenience, (4) fun, (5) safety and (6) health.

1. The fare is surprisingly affordable, especially if you travel agent discounts your mood / and if you bypass the ship's casino (blackjack, roulette and slot machines).

2. Add to your basic budget a couple of hundred dollars for tips, shore excursions and shopping and doubling your weight while feasting on four or shore gourmet meals each day? Try will power — and join in the diverse fitness activities, such as exercise, aerobics, dancing, aquatics, etc.

3. The ship is a modern ocean liner, equipped with a doctor, a nurse and a sufficient number of massive lifeboats.

Lifeboat drills are conducted immediately after the passengers throw streamers while their ship is leaving port, so you are never far from shore as the streamers are being tossed overboard? Nobody.)

In addition to safety procedures aboard the ship, links with potential rescuers are much more tangible than in 1912, what with radio, satellite and the many radio improvements, helicopters and the busy pleasure-trip sea lanes. Help is never far away.

6. Is seasickness probable? Not if you have reasonably good weather. Moving through the water at 20 mph, a 220-foot ship (four 5,600-hp, diesel engines) is determinable but the motion mainly serves to rock you to sleep at night. Stabilizers limit side-to-side rolling. We all felt fine throughout our 2,387-mile journey, which was packed with star-studded parties, dances, movies and organized games while we were at sea.

Ever-present were the ship photographers recording us for posterity as we boarded the ship, went ashore, boarded again, posed for a portrait, shook hands with the captain, attended his welcoming party, arrived at his formal dinner or partook of his buffet.

With so much time available (24 hours a day), a seven-day cruise almost seems like 14 or 21 days. Eight, 10-, 14-day and even longer tours are offered on different ships and cruise lines.

There is no penalty for dozing on a deck chair, or sleeping past breakfast. But there is a reward for attending some of the fitness sessions. In case, I am ship-shaped.

5. Safety comes to mind with the explosion and fire July 30 on another ship, the Emerald Seas, where 17 passengers and two crew members were injured. The ship had 800 passengers and 16 lifeboats to two small islands in the Bahamas area.

Also in July, underwater television cameras showed that no ship, including the Titanic, is truly unsinkable.

But survival odds are mighty good on a modern ocean liner, equipped with a doctor, a nurse and a sufficient number of massive lifeboats.

In addition to safety procedures aboard the ship, links with potential rescuers are much more tangible than in 1912, what with radio, satellite and the many radio improvements, helicopters and the busy pleasure-trip sea lanes. Help is never far away.

With so much time available (24 hours a day), a seven-day cruise almost seems like 14 or 21 days. Eight, 10-, 14-day and even longer tours are offered on different ships and cruise lines.

There is no penalty for dozing on a deck chair, or sleeping past breakfast. But there is a reward for attending some of the fitness sessions. In case, I am ship-shaped.

Also in July, underwater television cameras showed that no ship, including the Titanic, is truly unsinkable.

The bus will leave the Wilson Park ice rink parking lot at 8 a.m. that Friday and return at 6 p.m. Sunday. Microcomputer labs provided at BAC Career business students at BAC Area College may now use the latest computer technology and software.

Four classrooms were refurbished into "microcomputer labs" with $54,000 in state funds recently received. The computer labs were made for student use beginning with the summer semester.

Computers are available for each student in laboratories to complete realistic business applications using Lotus, Base, Wordstar, Symphony, Displaywriter and Networking software. The computers are also used to teach all major computer languages.

Students can apply lecture information to computer operations immediately, said Jim Cox, dean for Career Business Areas.

The labs, also used for secretarial science classes, are equipped with

On Sunday morning the group will stop at the Wilderness Inn in Reed Springs before heading to Springfield for lunch. Another stop on the way back will be a visit to a winery in St. James.

Reservations will be made in the Wilson Park office on Tuesday, Aug. 19.

Schools in Madison improve fire safety

By Donna Kimbro
Staff writer

MADISON — In preparation for the fall opening of schools, the Board of Education has ordered the installation of "smoke closers" at two elementary schools and new locker doors at the high school.

Automatic closers and new door hinges at both Hanley and Blair schools will be installed to conform with the fire safety code.

The devices will close doors in the area of smoke, to help limit the spread of a fire.

Henry Gabriel, a Granite City architect, inspected the buildings and submitted his recommendations to meet Illinois Life Safety Code and insurance requirements.

Cost of the work will be $2,000 for each school, or about half of the original estimate. Superintendent John Palchetti told the board.

Working in favor of the smoke closer project, which will proceed immediately, were Ed Warchol, Ed Dohnal, James Newsome, Frank Caves and Billie Bosworth, board president. Absent were Don Garrett and John Hart.

Also scheduled to be ready by opening day is the installation of 50 new doors for hall lockers at Madison High School.

"In the past, we have always bought about 50 new doors from the best source of doors in our area, from a retail company at a cost of $3,500. However, this year the company is no longer able to provide the specific size we need, so we contacted a distributor who offered the doors at a much lower cost. This year we will receive the same quality and size for the lockers at a cost of $1,615," Palchetti said.

Following a study by the personnel committee and receipt of recommendations from the administration, the board hired Sherri Gaglietti to work 10 months a year in the central office to assist the cafeteria director, maintenance supervisor and office staff. Anne Claggett was employed to serve as a teacher's aide or clerical aide at the Middle School.

Victor Jackson, president of the Dunbar Alumni Association, asked that the Madison High School band participate in a Dunbar area homecoming parade. William Tedbitter, band director, agreed to contact some of the band members and take part in the event.

The parade is scheduled for 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Aug. 30 on the school yard of Dunbar, W. Third and Jackson streets.

Palchetti read a letter from the Alton Board of Education inviting board members to attend athletic events sponsored by the Alton district; admission free. The superintendent said the Madison Board of Education would accept with the same invitation to board members of all area school districts.

YOUR STARS

Leo July 23-Aug. 7 - What is missing from your knowledge of recent events is as vital to success as what you know. Remedy the situation. Aug. 8-Aug. 22 - Things that have gone unused for a long time find their uses this week. Look to the past for clues.

VIRGO Aug. 23-Sept. 7 - More than one split-second drama will be played out on the home front this week. Be ready for change. Sept. 8-Sept. 22 - A single opportunity to progress occurs early in the week. Miss it and you will probably fail at many things.

LIBRA Sept. 23-Oct. 7 - Much has been delayed in the recent past waiting for the auspicious moment. This week is filled with such moments. Oct. 8-Oct. 22 - Employ your visual imagination in the search of solutions to problems involving the young.

SCORPIO Oct. 23-Nov. 7 - Conflicting views make it difficult for you to come to a decision this week regarding the future. Nov. 8-Nov. 21 - What you accomplish early in the week speaks for you at week's end. "The early bird catches the worm."

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 22-Dec. 7 - Simplify your plans for the immediate future. Otherwise, by week's end you will be tangled in red tape. Dec. 8-Dec. 21 - Don't overlook even minor statements of fact. Knowledge gained now proves even more valuable later.

PISCES Feb. 19-March 5 - Many moments of excitement make this a week to remember. Parental guidance is remembered.

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 6 - Avoid anything that could be misinterpreted as hypocritical. Be forthright, but not brutal. Jan. 7-Jan. 19 Remain aloof from those whose ideas and ideals don't match or complement yours. You don't want to risk conflict now.

AQUARIUS Jan. 20-Feb. 3 - Act your age! This is both advice and warning. Determine your next move, but keep it in reserve for now. Feb. 4-Feb. 18 - Note exceptions to your own routine behavior and you will discover the source of recent mistakes.

PISCES Feb. 19-March 5 - Many moments of excitement make this a week to remember. Parental guidance is remembered.

now. March 6-March 20 - Crowd scenes mark your activities this week. You can control their effect with a bit of daring - and much thought.

ARIES March 21-April 4 - A showy display of talent is out, be subtle in stating your abilities etc., and success will be yours.

April 5-April 19 - Abide by the majority opinion as expressed on the home front. This is a week for strengthening family ties.

TAURUS April 20-May 5 - Your vulnerability shows this week. You would do well, therefore, to lie low and allow others to take the lead. May 6-May 20 - Though crowds may be present, you can conduct all proceedings with dignity. Don't let things get hectic. GEMINI May 21-June 6 - Though you may be secretly amused by another's ill behavior, you would do well not to show it.

Decorum is key. June 7-June 20 - Show some restraint when answering questions, responding to actions. Rash reaction is hazardous.

CANCER June 21-July 7 - Blind faith is as important to your success this week as proven methods of operation. Be guided by both. July 8-July 22 - Discuss the details of a new project with all who are to have a hand in it. Implement plans carefully.

She says Sen. Dixon's Playboy terrorism article is a disgrace

SPRINGFIELD — Republican U.S. Senate candidate Judy Koehler on Monday said incumbent Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Illinois, should resign for writing an article for Playboy magazine.

Koehler, a member of Dixon's authorship on terrorism for the upcoming issue of the magazine "insulted" women. She alleged that Playboy magazine "is the very symbol of the degradation of women."

Koehler made the Playboy article a issue in her campaign, a series of fly-around press conferences Monday to announce that President Ronald Reagan would accept her on Aug. 12 in the Chicago suburb of Rosemont.

Dixon's top aide, Gene Callahan, responded that Koehler was sincere about her criticism of Playboy, she "ought to either withdraw her invitation to the president or ask President and Mrs. Reagan to disinherit their only son, who is an editor of Playboy."

Ron Reagan is a contributing editor of Playboy magazine.

Asked about that at a press conference Saturday, Koehler said the president's son should be able to withdraw his name from the magazine if he wants to do so."

Koehler also said she disapproved of former Republican President Gerald Ford writing an article for Playboy.

Koehler also noted former U.S. Sen. Charles Percy and former Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, also a Republican, had written for Playboy.

Responding to Koehler's charge that Dixon had exploited the Callahan-named aide, Koehler said the magazine is a woman (Christie Hefner, daughter of founder Hugh Hefner) and over half of its more than 300 employees in Illinois are women.

Callahan also said Playboy had over 250,000 readers in Illinois and Dixon had been invited to write the article on terrorism because he's co-chairman of the U.S. Senate Anti-Terrorism Caucus, which has 22 members.

He said the $2,000 Dixon is receiving for the article will be donated to the Illinois Drug Education Alliance in Deerfield.

He called Koehler's demand that Dixon resign "wishful thinking on her part."

As a state legislator, Koehler has sponsored bills to ban nudity and sexually explicit language on cable television and to restrict school instructional materials with sexual content.

Although she said she has never looked at Playboy magazine, Koehler contended parts of it are "pornography" and she said pornography was a cause of violence against others.

State to work with U.S. in anti-drug abuse drive

Officials believe Illinois is in excellent position to work with a new federal anti-drug abuse initiative announced by President Reagan.

"Drug abuse in America is a problem that confronts all of society, not just a small, hidden segment. The president's proposal is not just another program. There is no such thing as 'just another program' when it comes to prevention of drug abuse and the dangers it represents," Gov. James R. Thompson said last week.

"I applaud his effort, and that of Nancy Reagan, in an area that is as important as fighting drug abuse," Thompson said.

The six-part Reagan program announced at the White House Aug. 4 includes initiatives aimed at achieving drug-free workplaces; drug-free schools; drug-free communities; treatment for drug users; intensifying international cooperation and commitment against drug trafficking and users; strengthening law enforcement; and expanding public awareness and prevention.

"Technically, it's feasible to lower the groundwater table, but not feasible in our case," Salwasser said.

Skubish said funds should be requested from the federal and state governments to help pay for the project.

"If we want new funds to operate, we need to get the consent of the legislature," Skubish said. "In the past we had to go it alone, and going it alone is difficult."

well," said Ruth Lahr, former Granite City educator and school board member, and Lahr-Well's mother.

LAHR SAID she is impressed at the level of learning at the academy compared to the public schools.

"Being in public education for many years, I've seen it deteriorate," she said.

"She (Lahr-Well) had done a lot of hard work," said former District 9 Superintendent Max Redmond.

REDMOND SAID he attended a program where students from the academy performed a skit in foreign languages.

"I was impressed at the children's ability to speak more than the English language," he said. "I attended it and enjoyed it."

By Marine Duniphan

The Rev. Wallace Handy, Piedmont, Mo., spoke at a school reunion in the Wappapello Civic Center, Wappapello, Mo.

Forty-six former students and two teachers, including Rev. Handy, signed in at the reunion. Four schools from a small rural area in Wayne County were represented. Included were McGee, Yoken, Fry and Union Hill, all of which were consolidated into the Greenville School District in the early 1950s.

Although there are many people living in the Granite City area who attended one or more of these Missouri schools, only Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Duniphan and Mrs. Jack (Lucy) Colbert attended the reunion from Granite City.

Teachers recognized were Mrs. Roy (Rose Stitz) Shirell and Rev. Handy.

Rev. Handy told how he got started in his first year of teaching. The year began with him finding a family near the school to board in. The only way of transportation before horseback, horse and buggy, or walking, it was necessary to live near the school.

On the first Monday in September 1913, he said, he arrived at the school at 6 a.m. to find it empty. He had an eighth grade diploma, a teaching certificate, and a teaching contract in his pocket. The contract stated he was to receive $30 per month, and $20 it was for janitorial services.

Janitorial services in those days meant not only a long early, long day for the children, to carry wood to build a fire in a pot-bellied stove, in a very cold building; also, taking out the wood ashes later.

"There had to be a bucket of drinking water there to wash off the day. The water was brought in from the nearest water source, be it a deep well, a cistern, or a fresh water spring."

He assured the audience that both

BOYS

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Hartwick, he and the students learned much together that year.

For the 1914-15 school year, he did not get a school. In the fall of 1916, he started the 1916-17 term at Fry school.

In the fall of 1916 he was converted to Christianity, he said. "I was converted in the same building where I was teaching school. Things were much different then. The building was a church, not a school, but it was a school, a church, and a church, while another would serve as a general merchandise store and a post office."

Rev. Handy taught one more year in this community before he gave up teaching. He began "preaching the gospel" in 1922.

Rev. Handy is now retired as a full-time minister. But he still preaches on special invitation and still conducts funerals, at age 88.

After a day of preaching or of old friendship, plus some picture-taking, Cletus Wilfong agreed to serve as chairman for the next reunion, which will be held on the third Saturday in September 1987.

Those attending from Yoken School were Mary Duniphan, Ed Richman and Claud Richmond; from Union Hill School, Mr. and Mrs. Shanon White, Earl Adams, Usless Scott, Fay McKinsey and Naney Simpson; and teacher Wallace Handy; McGee School, Ed Barks, Sherman Barks, Leonard Duniphan, Clifford Duniphan, Maxine Duniphan, Mrs. Cletus Wilfong, Mrs. Lee Colbert, Oren Stephens, Thelma Stephens, Rose Shirell, Roy Shirell, Beauford Duniphan, Charley Cato, Edna Cato, John Payne and Lester Rogers, and teacher Rose Shirell, and Irene Fry School, Lee Ann, Edna, Duane, Pauline, Eva Stewart, Anna Maples, Sibbie Stapp, Nadine Wilfong, Dorothy Scott, Ervin Maples, Margorie Lawrence, Lorine Keith, Wilma Crawford, Ivy Hardy, Cletus Wilfong, Ruth Underwood, Mary White, Elmer Crites, Oren Crites and Gladys Richman.

Coast-to-coast bicyclists get needed rest in Granite

How I Spent My Summer Vacation: By Marcia Basalla and Susan Klepac

For those of you who consider summer vacation a time to recline in the backyard with a cold lemonade and a baseball game on the radio, this story may come as a shock.

Basalla and Klepac, who reside in the San Francisco area, decided to take a little bike ride this summer. But their destination wasn't merely to Chinatown or Fisherman's Wharf or even San Jose. They planned on their bicycles June 22, and were determined not to stop until they have reached Little Falls, N.Y., sometime around the end of August.

"We've been pretty lucky for the most part," said Basalla. "We had a lot of rain in Colorado and we were just barely able to get out of the city, with only a minimum of trouble. Klepac has had three flat tires, and while Basalla has avoided any flats, she has had broken spokes, and finally had to get her rear wheel rebuilt in Gunnison, Colo."

Klepac has had three flat tires, and while Basalla has avoided any flats, she has had broken spokes, and finally had to get her rear wheel rebuilt in Gunnison, Colo."

"They've experienced many kinds of weather, from 105-degree heat in Nevada to 45-degree chills in the mountains of Colorado.

"We had practically all the clothes we had packed on us," said Klepac. "We were at an elevation of 9,900 feet."

But more interesting than the weather has been the people they have met.

"It's really turned into a positive experience," Basalla said. "Most of the people have wanted to help us in some way or fix us a meal. I had a little problem in Missouri when some guys in a pickup truck tried to run me off the road, but they turned out to be more rude drivers, but mostly it's been a good experience."

Near Carson City, Nev., they headed for cover from the hot sun under some trees and ran into Elmer and Bernice Wilson, an elderly couple who said,

"They were real pioneers," Basalla said. "They raised all an office with the MacZura's daughter, Meg.

The two have averaged approximately 100 miles each day since they left, with only a minimum of trouble. Klepac has had three flat tires, and while Basalla has avoided any flats, she has had broken spokes, and finally had to get her rear wheel rebuilt in Gunnison, Colo.

their own food, and they had come out west many years ago like the old pioneers had. We've sent cards to them since then, like we have to all the people we've met."

They have experienced many slices of America, such as the old west in Kansas where they got a 99-cent breakfast. The restaurant used an old bathtub for a salad bar. And they pitched a tent in the city park in Maryville, Kan., only to find out that was camped by the park all night.

"And there were mosquitoes there, too," Basalla said. "I told Susan we should have toured the town during the night rather than try to sleep."

The two met three years ago while training for the first all-women's triathlon, the Bonne Bell Triathlon, made up of a half-mile swim, a 25-mile bike ride and a 6.2-mile road race.

It was Basalla who came up with the idea to travel across the country, Klepac quickly agreed.

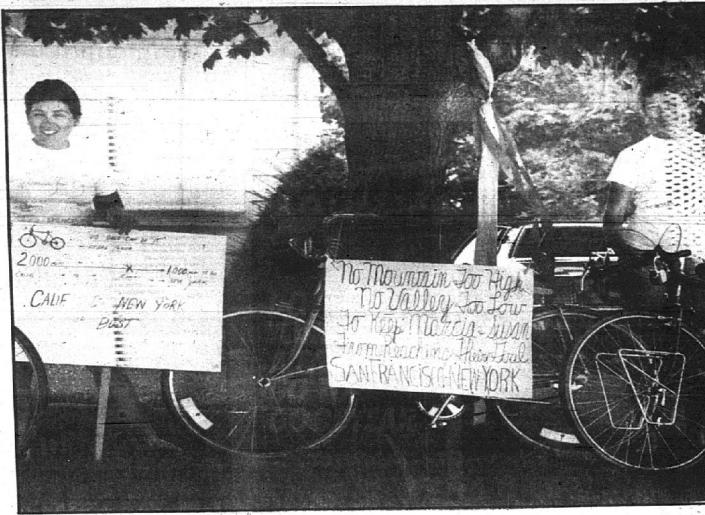

"My kids can't believe that mom is doing something like this," Klepac said. "But it's doing what I hoped it would do. All of my daughters are starting to become more active and more fit."

"When I was growing up, sports weren't for girls. So I wanted to do something to be more active, and I really didn't get a chance to start until I was 38."

Klepac runs her own business, selling home accessories, gifts.

"I just told all my customers I

He missed his chance in 1948

Almost everyone has had an opportunity to grab the brass ring and grab off a huge chunk of success.

Most of us, however, don't seize the opportunity and blow it all. But we realize that success slips out of our grasp. At the time, though, when we turned down that opportunity, our reasons for doing it, we thought, were overwise and reasonable.

In 1948, I was working on a daily paper down in Cairo, Ill. In mid-July, when World War II was winding down, I was offered a job on a St. Louis daily (the old Star-Times).

During the war, major league baseball was permitted to continue, but spring training trips were curtailed, and trips to Florida and California were out. So the St. Louis Cardinals had spring training in Cairo from 1943-45, when they were defending National League champions each year.

Fortunately for me, I caught the attention of J. Roy Stockton of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Sidney Lanier of the Star-Times.

Both offered me jobs, which, while the war was on, I couldn't accept, because I would have lost my "essential deferment" status. I was exempted from the draft, not because I was a reporter, but because I knew how to operate a newspaper printing press, and newspaper operators were in short supply.

It seems the Star had hired a circulation manager from an Indianapolis daily who would profit by promoting high school sports. The powers that be at the Star, which had a big circulation in the city of St. Louis but very little in the county, decided to push high school sports.

So my resume was submitted by Koenig to do the job. Eventually, I took the job. I got the idea to start a feature called "Prep Player of the Week" in football and basketball. High school students could clip a coupon and write an athlete's name to be honored.

The promotion proved to be a huge success.

Three years later, a man with great imagination and foresight decided to enter the publishing field and put out a free weekly paper. His name was Art Donnelly.

The details are somewhat unclear now. But I do remember his first paper was the Wellston Journal. He had a novel idea. Don't worry about circulation. Make the ads pay the way for the entire enterprise.

Donnelly came to the Star office to say that his paper would be printed on the presses there, and a deal was struck.

One part of Donnelly's idea was to push high school sports. The parents of the players would read the sports pages, and they would sell ads.

In 1948, Donnelly offered me a job with his company, an offer of $10 more a week than my salary at the Star. I turned the offer down, although with four children, I was tempted.

Donnelly was persistent.

About a week later, he called me and offered to take me to lunch at the Missouri Mule, just across from the paper on 12th Street. His new offer was the same salary, plus a 10 percent cut of the business with my editorial duties enlarged in addition to sports.

I was again tempted, but dumb me, I turned him down.

I didn't realize that in June 1948 the publisher of the Star would decide to sell out to the other afternoon daily. And I can't be faulted for not realizing Donnelly's genius and what the new printing process offset was going to do for the free circulation paper.

In 36 years that took place until the Donnellys sold out their highly profitable Journal papers would see them in September," she said.

Basalla said she took a leave of absence for the trip.

On the bikes with them are sleeping bags, a tent, cooking gear, sleeping pads, several outfitts of clothes and spare tires. In all, they have about 45 pounds of equipment.

"We came across some cyclists who were going in the opposite direction, and I heard one of them say, 'I don't know why they would want to carry all of that,'" Klepac said. "But we were probably just going a couple of miles."

They've spent about half of their nights in the tent and half in homes and motels.

"We were about to leave Dutton, Mo., Thursday morning when it started to rain," Basalla said. "We had made arrangements with a local to pitch the tent in their yard. We had homemade ice cream with them on Wednesday night, then they let us stay all morning for coffee until the rain let up."

"The trip has really restored my faith in people," Klepac said. "You always hear the negative things about people in this country, but there are a lot of wonderful people, too."

"We're finding out a lot about this country," Basalla said. "We've spent a lot of time asking questions about everything. There's a lot more here than just the east coast with its cities."

The two look at themselves as pioneers in their own way. They considered having someone else accompany them in a van, but decided against it.

"I wanted to do it a little like Lineman's Run and do it alone," Basalla said. "Besides, it would have meant having another person take off work."

Basalla and Klepac have figured it might cost them $1,200 for the whole trip, with the majority of the money going for food.

"We stay away from junk foods," said Basalla, a vegetarian.

"We've had a lot of carbohydrates, cereal, eggs, toast, cheese and fruit."

"And we've had a lot of peanut butter and jelly sandwiches," Klepac said. "People don't realize how much food you can fit in a backpack. I once even pulled a sandwich out of our bag, which would be dried out before we could eat more than half of it."

Klepac rides a brand new Trek 15-speed bike, while Basalla has a Nishiki 15-speed. Sponsors have provided them with equipment such as blister/sunburn remedies, seat pads, bike bags, bike racks, gloves, film, shoes and T-shirts.

The next stop is Warsaw, Ind., where Klepac's brother lives.

Then it's on through Ohio and Pennsylvania before they arrive in Little Falls, N.Y., where Basalla's brother lives.

"We will go to New York City only if we can get on the Today Show or Good Morning, America," Basalla said. "We sent them both press releases."

And finally, sometime around Sept. 1, they will pull into Little Falls. And then, will it be another long, arduous journey back to the Bay Area?

"We're loading up our equipment and flying home," Basalla said.

to the Ing尔斯在1984, a revolution has taken place.

Donnelly was the driving force behind the Journal's huge success. His two sons, Jim and Bob, both took active roles in the business. The Donnellys weren't satisfied to remain sole owners. Louis Clegg and others invaded Illinois and started papers in Alton, Wood River, Beloit, Edwardsville, Collinsville, Dupo, Cahokia, Belleville, East St. Louis, and Granite City.

Eventually, the Ing尔斯 bought the established papers in Collinsville and Granite City.

Quickly, the Donnelly papers became training schools for aspiring young newspapermen, both in the editorial and advertising departments. Before long, the Donnellys sold out, and Frank Bick controlled circulations topping the two metropolitan dailies by a large margin.

The money that changed hands when Ing尔斯 bought out the Donnellys boggled the mind. It truly was a megabucks transaction.

In 1951, when the Star was purchased by the other afternoon daily, readers at 10 cents a copy numbered about 1 million. Now, demonstrating the terrific growth of the weeklies, the two dailies would be doing well to have daily press runs of 700,000. The weeklies, on the other hand, have grown to the estimated in at about 300,000 homes each week.

So when you come to think of it — and I have — it wasn't a very smart move on my part not to go to work for the Donnellys in 1946.

But I finally got smart and started writing a column for the Donnelly chain, oops, the Ing尔斯.

Better late than never, huh?
